by: Larry Swanson

Wednesday, November 3, 2010

Country Inn & Suites
1250 South Moorland Road
Brookfield, WI
8:00am – 4:00pm
(includes lunch)

Learn how to quickly improve profitability by making performance improvements in productivity and other operational areas using Kaizen methods to apply Lean principles. Improvements from Kaizen can range from 20% to 50% in productivity, space and scrap; and from 40%-80% in set-up times, quality, inventory and lead times. Kaizen methods can be applied to job site, service, and office activities, as well as shop operations. This one day event includes participation in a class-room Kaizen simulation that uses actual hardware and which clearly demonstrates Kaizen methods and results. This mini-Kaizen is a practical adjunct to presentations on Lean principles and Kaizen implementation tools. Included in take-home materials are filled-in examples of "Kaizen Objectives and Results Forms" and other instruments to help with preparing for and implementing Kaizen events.

This course is ideal for owners, principals, managers, supervisors, estimators, and project managers. Space is limited to the first 20 registrations.
