

PMC/SMACCA Milwaukee presents:

LEAN WORKS IN CONSTRUCTION

Tuesday, October 6, 2009

@ Midway Hotel—Brookfield

1005 S. Moorland Rd

11:30am—Registration & Lunch

12:00—4:00pm—Program

The manufacturing world has recently gone through a revolutionary change, which has made companies more productive and profitable. By implementing LEAN principles and techniques, companies have seen improvements in the following areas: manufacturing lead time at less than 1 day; delivered quality at 3 PPM (Parts Per Million, 3 PPM means 3 defective parts in a million); and space reduced 35-50% less than prior to doing LEAN. Construction is not manufacturing but recent research shows that contractors are beginning to apply LEAN to construction with great success.

This session is based on recently updated research funded by the New Horizons Foundation and introduces the principles and techniques of LEAN and shows how LEAN works in construction. You will learn:

- The background, benefits and principles of LEAN thinking
- How LEAN thinking is being used successfully in construction
- The LEAN tools & techniques and how to apply them in your company

Each participant will receive a copy of the recently published New Horizons Foundation book: Thinking Lean—Tools for Decreasing Costs and Increasing Profits and also the SMACNA book: Sheet Metal made Lean and Clean

WHO SHOULD ATTEND?

- Owners, presidents, CEO, CFOs and executives who want to improve performance and profits
- Managers, supervisors, support function leaders and project managers

PRESENTER

Dennis Sowards, President of Quality Support Services, Inc. is a consultant to the construction industry. A popular speaker at SMACNA National Conventions and frequently published author in CONTRACTOR magazine, Dennis has also completed major research projects for the New Horizons Foundation.
